

HOMEWORK, QUIZZES, AND GRADES

Grades 6, 7, and 8 Religion

- Homework is due on the day following its assignment at the beginning of class
- Homework must be completed in blue or black ink
- Homework may consist of reading, writing, drawing, or research
- Homework will be checked for neatness, completeness, and effort
- Random assignments may be collected for teacher correction and number grade to be counted as a quiz
- Assignments deemed complete and neat on inspection will receive a check (100%)
- Incomplete assignments will receive an I (50%)
- If you cannot find your assignment at the time of check-in, parents will be informed with a written warning-it pays to organize
- Missing assignments will be marked with a zero
- If a student is absent on a day when homework is due, that assignment will be accepted on the day of return for full credit.
- If a student is absent for more than one day, refer to the junior high handbook for missed homework/classwork during absence-a designated responsible "study buddy" is encouraged
- If a student is absent from class for music lessons, ski club, visit to the nurse, or rehearsals-they are responsible for missed classwork and any homework assigned-a class log will be kept and homework will be posted
- Homework must be written in the homework agenda-ample time is given. Check homework boards frequently during the day
- Homework will count towards 15% of the Religion report card grade
- Quizzes will be given on information in a chapter currently being studied
- Quizzes may be announced or unannounced
- Quizzes will count towards 15% of the Religion report card grade
- Tests are given at the end of a chapter of study
- Reading guides and study guides are given as a study aid
- Tests are announced with ample time for students to prepare
- Projects are given from time to time during the school/church year
- Some projects are independent, some group, some prepared in the classroom, and some at home. Written directions and rubrics accompany every project
- Projects will be considered as a test grade
- Tests and projects will count towards 70% of the Religion report card grade
